Eagles Ready To Claw Bobcats

Bad luck dogged the Canyon Eagles the first of this week as the team prepared for the most important game of the season—the game with Dimmitt Friday night that will decide whether Canyon owns the District 1-AA championship outright or must share the crown.

On Monday, end Ross Bond was out of school with the flu. On Tuesday, halfback Ronnie Huyck and guard Jackie Brietling were out, too. Bond returned to school Tuesday, but it is expected that he will not be in good enough shape to play the entire game Friday.

One bright spot was evident. End Mike Poole, out of the lineup for several weeks because of a head injury, was cleared by the doctors and returned to workouts.

The Eagle-Bobcat game will not be broadcast from Dimmitt as is announced in another part of this paper.

This will be homecoming for Dimmitt, and the game is planned as a climax for two days of activities. Following the game, the Dimmitt homecoming committee has scheduled a "Victory" dance in the Teen Canteen.

Canyon fans attending the game are invited to a barbecue sponsored by the Dimmitt Junior class in the South Grade school cafeteria. Tickets are $1 for adults and 75 cents for children.

But the game is the important affair. Canyon has a three-win, no-loss district record. Dimmitt has a two-win, one-loss record. Dalhart also has a two-win, one-loss record. If Dalhart beats Friona and Dimmitt beats Canyon, the district will be in a three-way tie. But if Canyon wins or ties, the district crown will belong to the Eagles.

For the season, Dimmitt has a seven-win, two-loss record. Their wins are 42-0 over Springlake, 26-0 over Lockney, 6-0 over Hereford, 18-0 over Muleshoe, 28-6 over Olton, 22-0 over Friona and 48-7 over Tulia.

The Dimmitt losses are 12-6 to Abernathy and 13-6 to Dalhart.

As a comparison, the common foes of Canyon and Dimmitt give these scores for Canyon: Canyon beat Hereford 17-8; Canyon beat Dalhart 21-18, Canyon beat Tulia 34-20 and Canyon beat Friona 34-6.

Dimmitt's wheelhorse has been Jimmy Curtis, 157-pound halfback. He has scored seven touchdowns and made two extra point conversions. Pulling on the other side of the wheel has been Norman Nelson, 165-pound halfback. He has scored six touchdowns.

The team's chief is Carlos Barnes, 152-pound quarterback. He has scored four touchdowns, and has passed for six more. Three of Dimmitt's extra point conversions have been on passes from Barnes.

The Bobcats also have a pass-snatching end, Junior Coffee, 170 pounds. He has scored on two passes, and many of their pass plays are designed with him in mind.

The Dimmitt offensive line averages 173 and the backfield 160. On defense, the line averages 177 and the secondary 159.

Coach J. D. Covington's teams are noted for their spirit, and for the fact that they do not let down during the game. Even when behind, they play as hard at the last as they do at the first, and are dangerous at any time.

They run from the T-formation and their best running plays have been off tackle.

The game will begin at 8 p. m. in Bobcat Stadium.

Rural Carriers To Take Survey

Postmaster Marion Higdon announced today that rural mail carriers will begin distributing Livestock Survey Cards to patrons on their routes about Nov. 30.

This annual livestock survey, which has been a cooperative project of the Post Office and Agriculture Departments since 1924, provides basic information to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Austin for estimating number of cattle, hogs, sheep and chickens on Texas farms and ranches Dec. 1.

In order for Randall County to be well represented in the survey, Postmaster Higdon requests that each patron receiving a card fill out and return it to his mail box for prompt pick up. Rural mail carriers working on this project are W. E. Miller, route one, and K. R. Foster, route two.

Other concerts of the series will be given Jan. 12, Feb. 16 and March 16.

CROP Drive Gets $413 for Treats

A total of $413.25 was collected last Tuesday night in the CROP trick-or-treat drive. This is almost $90 more than the amount collected last year.

About 60 junior and senior high school students met at the Presbyterian Church and canvassed the city after a short devotional.

The Canyon Christian Youth Council, the organization which sponsored the drive, has expressed its appreciation for the response of the citizens of Canyon.

2 Programs Remain In Education Week

Two programs remain in Canyon public schools' observance of American Education Week.

An assembly, sponsored by the Canyon Christian Youth Council, will be presented today at Canyon High School. Theme of the program will be "Religion in Education."

Ski films will be shown. Officers for the group will be elected, and plans will be made for a club ski trip in December. Members of the club will be given discount rates at skiing resorts.

An organizational meeting had been scheduled earlier, but a light attendance prevented organization.

National Writer Visits Farmers

A representative of the Wall Street Journal visited two area farmers recently to get information for a national story.

Jack Hornacke, Journal staff writer, visited the farms of D. L. Allison and O. H. Rahlfs to collect facts for a story on the area's grain sorghum industry, particularly how feeding grain sorghums to livestock such as hogs, bring larger returns than marketing the crop.

Each of the two farmers feeds an estimated one-third of his crop to hogs and markets 300 to 400 hogs annually. One farmer estimated that he gains 90 cents a bushel by marketing the grain-fed hogs rather than the grain.

Accompanying Hornacke were John Brazzil, county agent; Bill Nelson of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association; and Frank Arnold, Amarillo banker.

Region All Messed Up

After last week's games, only one team has a clear championship in the four districts of Region 1-AA. The four districts are 1, 2, 3 and 4.

In District 1-AA, Canyon has a 3-0 district record, but must win or tie the game with Dimmitt Friday in order to win. If Dimmitt wins the game, the district will have a three-way tie between Dimmitt, Dalhart and Canyon. Dimmitt and Dalhart have 2-1 records. Dalhart, in order to be in on the tie, must defeat Friona.

In District 2-AA, Muleshoe has a 3-0 record, but must defeat Abernathy to win the district and have the right to represent the district in the playoffs. Abernathy has a 2-1 record. The district is composed of Muleshoe, Abernathy, Lockney, Olton and Morton.

In District 3-AA, Spur has an outright championship, with a 4-0 record. Floydada is in the second spot with a 2-1 record. Other teams in the district are Slaton, Tahoka and Post.

In District 4-AA, a six team district, Crane is in the lead with a 4-0 record. Denver City and Seminole are right behind with 3-1 records. The other teams in the district are McCamey, Fort Stockton and Alpine.

The winners of Districts 1 and 2 will play bi-district games, as will the winners of 3 and 4. Those two champions will play the regional game, and the winner will meet the champion of Region 2, composed of Districts 5, 6, 7 and 8. Both Perryton and Stamford are in Region 2, and the two teams will meet in the bi-district game.

Eagles Dump Friona Chiefs

Canyon High cinched a tie for the District 1-AA championship Friday night with a 34-6 win over Friona.

The outcome of the game was in no doubt with the Eagles blocking a Friona punt on the first series of downs and driving for a touchdown when only four minutes and four seconds had been played.

The punt was blocked by Tommy Henderson and Larry Brotherton ended the drive from the Friona 22 with a two-yard plunge. Eddie Boydstun kicked the extra point from the eight yard line after Canyon was penalized for being offsides.

The second Eagle score came in the second quarter on a 20-yard run by Chuck Nester. Boydstun ran the extra points over to give Canyon a 15-0 lead. Shortly after the middle of the second quarter, Jerry Richardson ran 12 yards to give Canyon a 21-0 lead at halftime.

Canyon took the third quarter kickoff and drove for a touchdown without stopping. Richardson made the last seven yards and Boydstun kicked the extra point. In the fourth quarter, Richardson ran for his third touchdown. Boydstun's kick was no good, but the score was 34-0.

With only 40 seconds left in the game, Friona's J. W. Baxter ran over the goal line from the three for the lone Chief score. As the game ended, the Eagles had gone from the Canyon 42 to the Friona 16 in two plays, with an unnecessary roughness penalty, but the clock was too fast for another play.

Canyon's substitutes played most of the fourth quarter, when Friona made most of their yardage and first downs.

The Chiefs took the opening kickoff but were stopped with a net gain of five yards. Jim Clements stood on his own 20 to kick, but Henderson rushed in and blocked the ball. Canyon took possession on the 22.

Ronnie Huyck, Richardson, Brotherton and Nester all took turns carrying the ball and moved it to the end one in six plays. Brotherton made the score.

At the tail end of the first quarter, the Eagles got the ball on their own 27 on downs. They moved the ball to the Canyon 48, then Boydstun kicked to the Friona 5. The Chiefs were stopped at the 10 and Clement kicked to the Canyon 47.

Richardson gathered the ball in his arms and raced down the sidelines to the Friona 20. From there, Nester ran over with 9:17 left in the half.

After the ensuing kickoff, Friona was stopped on the Canyon 45 and Clement kicked to the 16. Boydstun took the punt and ran to the Friona 43. Nester took off for 23 more yards on the first play, and on fourth down, with seven to go for a first down, Richardson just took the ball 12 yards and scored. The clock showed 4:41 left.

Opening the second half, Boydstun took the kickoff on the five and ran to the 20. A six-play drive went the 80 needed yards, with Richardson picking up the last seven.

The teams pushed back and forth until the last of the fourth quarter when Clement kicked to the Canyon 4. Richardson ran back to the 36 and a drive was on.

It took seven plays to go the yardage, with Richardson on the

Hooray for the Winner

It's hard for us to understand how the victory of a millionaire Republican over a millionaire Democrat for the governorship of our nation's most-populated state qualifies the winner to be the Republican candidate for the presidency two years from now.

The victor's political philosophy appears to be about the same as the loser's —one favors socialism and government interference in private lives just as much as the other.

But the pundits tell us that Nelson Rockefeller could well be the 1960 Republican presidential candidate.

It's sure that the Democratic candidate will be of the same stripe. And where does that leave a person who would like to see less interference by government, and would really like only for the government to act as a referee in the battle of life?

It leaves him outside, unhappy and disgruntled. It leaves him reading the words of Thomas Jefferson and wondering what happened. It leaves him riled up inside and suffering from indigestion from swallowing too many things he cannot take.

It leaves him talking of a thing he calls States Rights, although he's apt to mean individual rights instead. It puts him on the bad appearing side of a question of forced mixture of colors. (And that happens whether or not he favors the mixture, just so long as he does not favor the force.)

He reads of the wonderful things his government is going to do for him and for his fellowman, and he finds himself disillusioned by reading the figures on his paycheck after his government gets its bite.

He finds on one hand that his activities are curtailed by his government, and on the other hand that his fellow citizen does not care.

And he looks about to see that public and private morality is seeping away. He finds friends who say that this or that government handout is wrong, but "everybody else is getting it and I might as well, too."

He sees, and thinks, and wonders if he is not a throwback who should have been born and lived in another century. He fights what he sees, yet knows inside that the fight is lost because of battles that were not waged earlier.

And he knows very well that regardless who the Republicans and the Democrats nominate in 1960, and regardless of which candidates win, you can't tell a Rockefeller from a Harriman or a Pat Brown or a John Kennedy or a Lyndon Johnson or a Richard Nixon.

Plains' Autum

When the mercury in thermometers rises high in the afternoon and drops low at night, only to rise high again the next afternoon; when the wind pushes from the south, then from the north, and back again from the south—all in a short while; when your wife can't decide whether to wear a short-sleeve dress or a sweater and skirt, and generally makes the wrong decision; then you know fall has come to the Panhandle and it won't be too long before the sky decides to scrooch up its eyes and spit some snow.

A calm, beautiful evening, with mild temperatures, is turned into a dusty, blustery nightmare by the sudden arrival of a norther. The after-chill of that same norther is blown away with dry winds of the southwest. And the leaves knocked off trees by the norther are picked up and swirled in eddies by the southwester. Fall is king in the Panhandle.

The sky seems to stretch forever, and it's hard to tell where the ground stops and the sky begins. The rustling brown of the harvested maize fields contrasts sharply with the red-cow dotted expanse of green wheat. Flights of ducks and geese fill in the near background of the limitless sky—and look sharply, there's a bank of clouds coming from the north again. It's fall here on the plains.

Fun To Watch

We enjoyed last week's favorite pastime—watching people go from store to store checking on prices to see if they got a bargain at the auction of Hart Appliance stock.

Not Fair At All

If football has grown so important at West Texas State that coaches are hung in effigy, we think it should be made worth the coaches' time.

Let's pay the head coach $15,000 a year and give him an oil well for a winning season—then we can feel justified in figuratively stretching his neck for a losing season.

So Good

The Umbarger Festival and sausage dinner has grown so large now, that an extra building and more serving lines could easily be used to feed the hundreds that show up.

But the wait in line, not too long, is not so bad, because the delicious sausage wipes away all thoughts of waiting. And the homemade bread and homemade butter, the luscious vegetables, the tart sauerkraut . . . so good!

What Our Neighbors Say . . .

Scissor Snippings

Ernest Joiner in the Ralls Banner: Halloween was a little different this year. Merchants are counting their losses to vandals in the thousands of dollars. By 8:30 p. m. Friday night traffic was at a virtual halt in town, with cotton trailers, wrecked cars and assorted debris blocking streets.

Plate glass windows were shattered at Prewitt Grain & Feed. A Santa Fe box car was pulled into the center of Main Street, and a combine operator from Sherman whammed his pickup into its side, causing some $325 in damage and setting up a lawsuit against the railroad.

At Shell Elevator, mother's little darlings cut retaining materials from a carload of grain, emptying it on the railroad right of way. The car had to be unloaded, repaired, and reloaded. The town reeked of rotting eggs smashed against business houses and homes.

One little angel, with a bag of loot gathered on this annual shakedown cruise to acquaint kids with the fine art of blackmail, ripped a $115 storm door screen for the Jack Robertsons. What is most different is that mama's angels were out trafficking in blackmail with an equal number of Negro and Mexican children, who have given us our first integrated Hallowe'en. With a mask on, who can tell anyway!

Parents who have sworn to fight to the death against integration in schools haven't set up a single yap about their kids prowling darkened streets and alleys with colored children . . . maybe because the kids bring home a lot of goodies and share 'em with the family.

Most of the damage downtown, according to helpless merchants who stood by and wrung their hands in the absence of any kind of a police officer, was done by Mexican children.

Annually at this joyous Hallowe'en season the four-letter obscenities show up in soap and white paint all over town. These little bastards may not know how to count to two in school, but they've gotten themselves a $1500 sex education somewhere.

We've often wondered why it is that the word is seldom employed by anyone except those under 18 and those over 80?

Well, the kids certainly didn't learn the word in school, or at church, and that leaves the home. Nice going, parents!

Douglas Meador in the Matador Tribune: Cowboys used to drink from the bitter spring where a little blade of cold water had cut a trench in the white gypsum rock. Wild cattle licked at the crystal water before it sank in a sandy marsh and coyotes paused there in their hurried reconnaissances. The cow trails are now trenches in the prairie grass, and the silt of years has buried the spring, a smelly bog that oozes a rainbow film. Farther up the hill a small engine labors to lift each load of oil destined to appease the insuperable thirst of progress.

'Tis well to forget the past because the future will give you plenty to worry about.

Considering its age this is a mighty fast old world.

I GIVE YOU

TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

The absence of crowds is one of the changes that strikes those of us who remember 25 or 30 years ago.

"Farmer Jim" Ferguson spoke to an audience of thousands that rocked with laughter and cheers in Marine Park in Fort Worth in 1932. And the traditional rally on the courthouse lawn the night before the primary would draw 5,000 or more.

T.C.U. attracts big crowds to its gridiron battles now but the high school games lure only a fraction of the attendance they once did. (Back in the 1930's, if the "Mighty Mites" of Masonic Home were playing, Farrington Field, seating 17,000, would be packed.

One Saturday, the horse races at Arlington Downs were viewed by 50,000, declared to be the largest crowd in the history of sport in Texas up to that time. Now the only races are the Quarter Horse sprints at Brady, Fredericksburg and a few other towns in the Hill Country.

A parade in Fort Worth on Armistice Day, would crowd the sidewalks almost all the way from the railroad station on lower Main to the courthouse.

In fact, just about any event that offered spectacle, color, and entertainment could count on a throng.

They roped off the streets the day the T. & P. opened its beautiful station and the estimate of the crowd was 20,000.

When an overpass was dedicated, the ribbon-cutting, the speeches and the square dancing in the street would bring a massed and milling mob.

Not only was this true of Fort Worth but of Texas in general.

The double log cabin at Holland's Lake was the scene of an old-timer's reunion. On the day that "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, governor of Oklahoma (a former Parker Countian) spoke, the dust hung in a cloud, as a line of cars inched along, the entire length of the three miles from the Weatherford Courthouse to the ground. Estimates were that at least 10,000 were there.

When the railroad was built into Woodson, the free barbecue drew some 14,000. (The rails have long since been taken up.)

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention (in Brownwood in 1924 and, the following year is Mineral Wells) was the occasion of a parade that included some 40 bands and the procession was witnessed by 50,000 — which was about four times the population of the host city.

The Fourth of July was a day of excitement, too. There would be plenty of doings at the grove — families would bring picnic baskets; there would be a speech by a great man, perhaps a State Senator or even a Congressman; fireworks; harness races; all kinds of contests, such as three-legged races and sack-races; and the vendors of lemonade and the instantaneous photograph-takers would have a field day.

At Pioneer, where in 1922 an oil boom was in progress, the celebration of the Glorious Fourth drew 5,000 — and they were not even missed from the crowded main street, half a mile long.

On one occasion, J. R. Record, the managing editor of the Star-Telegram, suggested I work up a motorcade to Weatherford. (I was a reporter). A few articles in the paper and the result was the longest motorcade that Fort Worth ever sent forth.

Just to make a drive of 60 miles in the open air of night (in that pre-air-conditioning time), to pay a visit to a neighboring city and to eat a slice of chilled Parker County watermelon, how many people do you think went? Two thousand!

Talking pictures in technicolor and on the wide screen; radio; television — these are the factors that are usually credited with making crowds in Texas, and elsewhere, a rarity — but I think that the world has become more sophisticated, more skeptical — less given to enthusiasm, less wide-eyed with wonder, more grown-up, if you please.

But I believe this generation is the loser thereby. Folks may be smarter, but they have a harder time having a good time.

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

The Brandenburg Gate

The Brandenburg Gate has dominated the City of Berlin for over 100 years, both in structure and spirit. Erected in the early 19th century, it was removed by the French in 1813 and taken to Paris, then returned to Berlin during the Prussian-French War in 1817. It is adorned by a quadriga drawn by four horses and driven by the Goddess of Victory. Damaged during World War II, it was destroyed in 1945 by the Russians, but has since been rebuilt.

The Brandenburg Gate today is more readily recognized as the principal dividing line between the two sectors of occupied Berlin—the German Democratic Republic, or the Soviet Sector—and the Federal Republic of Germany, which is the western sector. Life is entirely different on each side of the gate.

In an address to the German Bundestag in Berlin on Oct. 1, the Federal Minister for All-German Affairs described the conditions which prevail in the eastern sector. Since 1945, more than 11.5 million Germans from eastern Europe, the eastern provinces of Germany, and the Soviet-occupied Zone have entered the Western Zone as victims of Soviet communism.

They currently represent some 23 per cent of the total population of the Federal German government. Of this number, about three million have fled from the Soviet-occupied Zone, and in recent weeks they have numbered almost 5,000 weekly.

In one sense, it is heartening to realize that freedom-loving peoples never cease their struggle to attain greater individual liberties, and it is an absolute demonstration that Godless communism never fulfills the hopes and aims of the people it governs.

It can be assumed, I believe, that the great majority of those remaining in the Soviet Zone yearn for their freedom in a democratic society, and they look forward to the day when the Soviets will agree to free all-German elections.

Consider the future of these people remaining in the Eastern Zone in light of these facts: From Jan. 1, 1958, to Aug. 31, 1958, 813 medical doctors, veterinarians and dentists—compared with 250 during the same period last year—and 115 pharmacists—as compared with 33 last year—fled from central Germany to the Federal Republic, leaving numerous communities and even hospitals temporarily without medical assistance. Since early this year, more than 250 professors, instructors and assistants engaged in scientific research and teaching have left the Soviet Zone.

They all emphasized their flight was not occasioned by financial strain and that they were paid well. The prime reason for their defection was the so-called "socialistic transformation" of the universities and colleges which has been energetically pursued in 1958.

This socialization demands of all professors, instructors and assistants an unequivocal and public belief of materialism which many cannot make because they believe it would be a public avowal of Atheism. Also remarkable is the increasing flight of teachers, which can also be blamed on increased political and psychological pressure.

In August, 1958, alone, 619 teachers applied for emergency admission to the Western Zone, 412 of them received their education after 1945. Since the beginning of this year, more than 2,300 teachers have thus fled from the Soviet Zone.

Since it is generally known in the Soviet Zone that additional education of several semesters is required of such teachers in the Western Zone, and since most of the teachers have been employed for some time and are married, it becomes even more apparent how distressing the conflict is which causes them to abandon their professional careers.

Many, many other tragic conditions prevail on the eastern side of the Brandenburg Gate. The greatest tragedy to my mind is not the lack of medical supervision, the absence of qualified teachers, the lag in scientific development, nor even any possible shortage of the basic necessities of life; but, rather, is the denial of the dignity and spirit which accompanies individual liberties.

Suppression of lofty ideals and attempts to substitute fiction for fact as a living standard is inherent in the communist system. I trust the day will come when individual dignity and freedom will prevail on both sides of the Brandenburg Gate.

Discussion Held By Altar Society

A round table discussion of family participation from the home in community and church affairs highlighted the monthly meeting of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Ann's Catholic Church Monday night.

Led by Father James Comisky, the group discussed traditional religious practices within the home, with special emphasis on the events of the church year as providing incentive and inspiration toward family unity, devotion and participation.

The discussion brought out that many of the old world customs and traditions tend to become lost in America's "Melting Pot" civilization and that Americans have a unique opportunity in the best of many cultures. A concerted effort should be made to preserve these traditions for posterity, the group concluded.

Using the quotation, "I am the way, the truth, and the life," and the parable of the Good Samaritan, the group discussed the specific problems of scattered agricultural communities as a challenge to unity and perseverance in the fundamental practice of religion.

A general conclusion was that the challenge is essentially a family problem for which the mother is mainly responsible in cooperation with her husband and her church. It is the mother who sets the standard and, by example, guides the community in practical application of Christian ideals and traditions.

All things come to those who wait — on themselves.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

Excess irrigation water which is turned into road ditches constitutes a problem for road maintesance and weed control.

In an effort to solve the prob, lem the Soil Conservation Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation have joined together to offer the farmers land leveling either bench leveling or field leveling. These practices carry a payment and will help conserve both rain water and irrigation water. These systems are staked and checked by SCS technicians.

Tail water which escapes from an irrigated field often causes the county mowers to bypass the "bar" ditches and this gives the Johnson grass more time to spread and make seed.

Tail water is also hazardous to your health. It furnishes a breeding place for mosquitoes. It is also a public safety hazard when allowed to run across or stand on public roads. Some accidents have occurred when an unaware motorist comes upon a gully washed across the road by tail water.

We should take steps to conserve the underground water reserve. By conserving this precious resource, protecting community life and health and facilitating a greater economic return from irrigatios water pumped.

The Space Age, to most of us, is just three words strung together for a new look. As for understanding its real implications, we hardly want to try. And if asked to give a five-minute talk on the subject, we'd frantically picture rockets shooting off into space and a sort of Disney-like conception of a crater-pocked Moon.

Without admitting it, we tend to turn our eyes away from the future into a colorful past with which we are familiar.

Last night four of us — whose memories reach back to daily chores of cleaning lamp chimneys and taking ashes from the front room stove — got to talking about things past and present.

The man, a successful automobile agent of about 65, entertained the spouse and me with stories of the first automobile show in our town. He said one oldtimer came forward with a picture of the first commercial garage in the city — a barn-like building with a Model T seen faintly through the doorway and three hitchin' posts out front.

We talked about changing times, and how in a couple of generations folks would probably be taking vacations on the Moon. And as we rode along in a sleek new station wagon, decked out in our best for a dinner dance, the four of us suddenly felt ourselves looking smack dab into the Space Age . . .

Where our ordered World is only one planet swirling in a vast outer space . . .

Where the evidence of a Great Planner is even stronger than in the smaller World that once was the extent of our view . . .

And just as an untrained person senses greatness in music without knowing why, we four ordinary folks sensed the feel of today's scientific horizons.

Could be that even we oldsters are getting 'hep' to Tomorrow.
